Pelosi Statement on Securing $60 Million for Hunters Point

Washington, D.C. – Democratic Leader Nancy Pelosi issued this statement after securing $60.4 million for Hunters Point re-testing and clean-up in the FY2019 Energy and Water, Legislative Branch, and Military Construction and Veterans Affairs minibuss spending bill:

“At this critical point for the Hunters Point clean-up, I am proud to have fought in the Congress to secure an additional $60.4 million in federal funding above the President’s budget for excavation, resampling and rescanning of the base – on top of the $36 million in base clean-up funding I secured for the Shipyard in the 2018 omnibus funding bill. These funds will ensure that every area touched by Tetra Tech EC will be retested, and the health and safety of the Bayview-Hunters Point Community will be protected.

“Bayview-Hunters Point residents deserve our relentless commitment to an open, transparent clean-up that holds Tetra Tech EC accountable for its outrageous data manipulation and falsification. We must ensure that this breach of the public trust can never again happen, and provide proper oversight to ensure that the Navy fulfills its responsibility to thoroughly clean up the Shipyard.

“In my time representing San Francisco in the U.S. Congress, it has been my honor to have secured over $1 billion for the clean-up of the Hunters Point Shipyard. Our community deserves to know that these investments are being made in a safe, smart and transparent manner, and to have all the resources and information they need to guarantee the health and safety of themselves and their families.”

One other edit...I think we need to add/reiterate the City's position that we are not going to accept the transfer any Shipyard property from the Navy unless it is clean and safe.

I think the map should also include the outlines showing each parcel since they are referenced in the letter and often are the subject of confusion.

101-0162018-000

August 30, 2018

TO: Ms. Elaine Brown and Residents of Hunters Point
FROM: Nadia Sesay, Executive Director
SUBJECT: Status of the Hunters Point Shipyard

This memo is in response to concerns raised by community members about construction activities underway at Hunters Point Shipyard. This memo provides background differentiating between the areas of the Shipyard currently under development and currently occupied by residents, and the areas of the Shipyard where construction has been stopped, the areas where land has not been transferred to OCII, and where re-testing is required due to fraud committed by Tetra Tech.

SUMMARY

The land at the Hunters Point Shipyard is divided into different parcels that are grouped into two separate development projects: Phase 1, which is commonly referred to as the "Hilltop" and the "Hillside", and Phase 2, which includes all remaining Shipyard land. The land in Phase 2 is an environmental "superfund" site that required extensive clean-up by the Navy. Under state and federal law a number of regulatory agencies provide oversight of the clean-up of the Hunters Point Shipyard including the USEPA and two departments within the California Environmental Protection Agency (CalEPA): the Department of Toxics Substances Control (DTSC) and the San Francisco Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board (RWQCB). The City, through the San Francisco Department of Public Health (SFPDH), also closely monitors the Navy cleanup.

Unfortunately, a portion of Phase 2 (portions of 9 out of 15 parcels: B1, B-2, C, D-2, E, G, UC-1, UC-2 and UC-3) land is now the subject of an investigation into fraud committed by Tetra Tech, the company the Navy hired to test the Phase 2 parcels after the Navy completed its environmental clean-up work. The City of San Francisco did not have any contractual relationship with Tetra Tech. Tetra Tech is no longer working on the Shipyard, and the Navy will hire a new company to re-test the Phase 2 land. No construction is currently occurring on any of the Phase 2 parcels, and development will not occur until a thorough re-testing of the Phase 2 parcels is complete. The Navy has agreed to re-test portions of Phase 2 land where Tetra Tech had worked, and has issued a draft workplan on how retesting will happen. The workplan is the document that explains how the Navy is going to do the retest. The new data collected during the retest will verify either that the property is safe to transfer or that additional cleanup work must be done to make it safe, to ensure that there is no potential exposure to any radiological hazard. The workplan is being reviewed by the USEPA and other regulators.

Phase 1's Hilltop and Hillside areas are not part of the larger environmental superfund site, and have been confirmed by the EPA to be safe for people to live and work there. Development on the Hilltop is well underway, where there are currently 439 homes completed, with an additional 66 homes under construction. In order to further reassure the Hilltop residents, workers, and community that this area is safe, the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) is conducting a health and safety scan of both the Hilltop and Hillside. CDPH began scanning in mid-July and to date has found nothing hazardous to human health or the environment. Construction on new homes on the Hillside will begin after the CDPH scanning is completed.

The Navy has honored the Mayor's request to participate in monthly community meetings to keep the community informed about the re-test and future workplans.

Environmental Clean-up and Testing

In 1974 the U.S. Navy closed operations at the Shipyard due to environmental contamination that occurred, portions of the Shipyard are designated as a federal "superfund" site that requires the land to be remediated before it can be used for any other purpose. The Navy has an agreement with various environmental regulators (the EPA, the California Department of Toxic Substances and Control, and the Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board), that requires the Navy to make the land safe for future development. The regulators review and approve the Navy's plans and activities on the site. San Francisco's Department of Public Health also independently reviews environmental documents associated with the Hunters Point Shipyard cleanup on behalf of the City.

The Navy has conducted extensive clean-up activities on Phase 2 land and hired a company called Tetra Tech to provide testing to confirm that the Navy's remediation work was complete. Unfortunately, Tetra Tech committed fraud in some of its testing, and now the Navy and the regulators are coming up with a plan for new testing. The Phase 2 parcels impacted by the Tetra Tech fraud include portions of parcels B-1, B-2, C, D-2, G, UC-1, UC-2 and UC-3. On June 15, 2018, the Navy released a draft workplan on how to test the first affected area (referred to as "Parcel G") and provided members of the public 60 days to provide any comments to the workplan, the document that explains how the Navy is going to do the retest. That public comment period ended August 14, 2018, and as a next step, the Navy will draft a final workplan and a responsive summary documenting each comment received. As is customary in the process of drafting workplans for testing, the Navy and regulatory agencies will continue discussions on the best way to move forward to ensure that the land is safe for residents, workers, and visitors of the Shipyard. Tetra Tech is no longer working on the Shipyard, and the Navy will hire a new company to provide testing services on Phase 2 land.

The land on the Hilltop and the Hillside are not part of the superfund site, and the EPA has re-confirmed that these areas are safe for residents, workers, and visitors. However in recognition that the community would like additional reassurances that there is no health risk in living or working on the Hilltop or the Hillside, CDPH is providing an independent health and safety scan of these areas. CDPH began scanning on July 16, 2018 and a final report will be completed by Fall 2018. CDPH provides weekly updates on their progress, including information on any anomalies found during surveying. To date, CDPH has released five weekly progress updates and has found nothing hazardous to human health or the environment.

Land Transfer and Development Status

The Office of Community Investment and Infrastructure (OCII), formerly the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency, also has an agreement with the Navy on how land, once it has been cleaned, can be transferred to OCII and its development partners so that the Shipyard can eventually be developed into new neighborhoods that include residential, commercial, and community serving uses. The development partner on Phase 1 is Lennar, and the development partner on Phase 2 is FivePoint.

Phase 1 (Hilltop and Hillside)

Land in Phase 1 was the first land to be transferred to OCII in 2004, as it was not part of the superfund site, and now private development of new homes is well underway. On the Hilltop, there are already 439 homes built, with another 66 currently under construction. The Hillside is the next part of Phase 1 that is scheduled to start construction, which will provide 404 new homes. This is the area of the Shipyard where CDPH is currently performing radiological scans.

Phase 2 (All other Parcels)

In 2015, three parcels UC-1, UC-2, and D-2 were transferred to OCII: two parcels were utility corridors and one was a development parcel. Site preparation work and construction had begun on a new Artists' Building on parcel A but that work has since has been stopped pending the outcome of the re-testing by CDPH. There is no active construction currently occurring on parcels UC-1, UC-2, or D-2, and no development will occur on these parcels until after the Navy re-tests them. No other land in Phase 2 has been transferred by the Navy to OCII. OCII will not accept any land or begin any development on Phase 2 until each parcel is tested and determined by the regulatory agencies to be safe.

MONTHLY HUNTERS POINT SHIPYARD MEETINGS

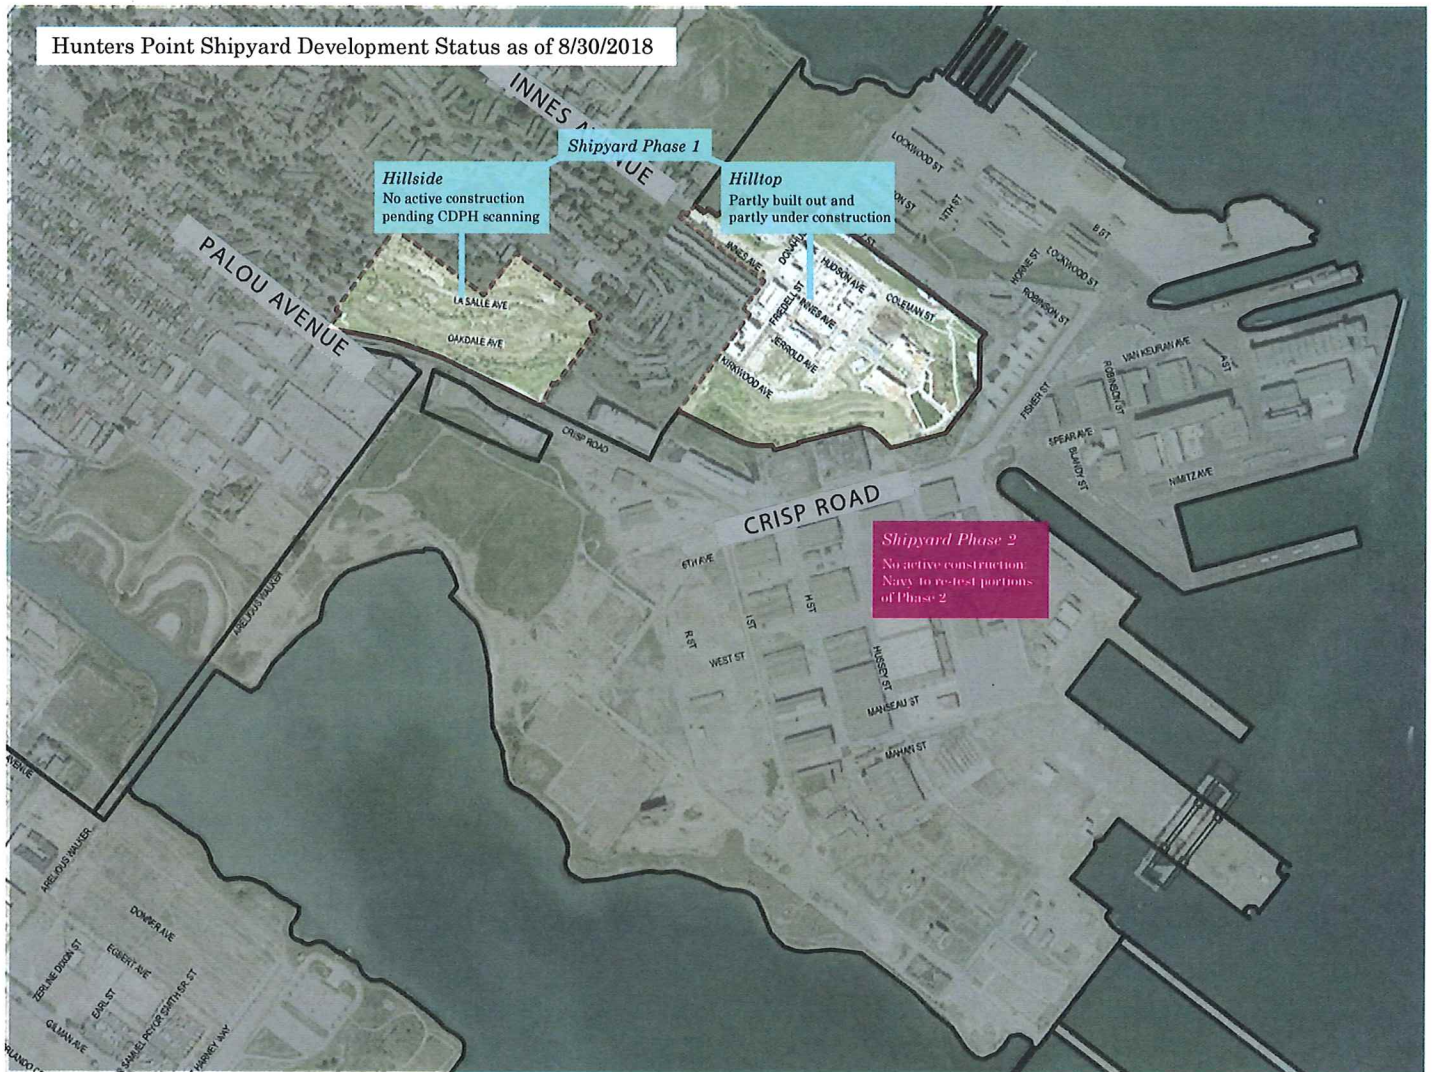

The Mayor's Hunters Point Shipyard Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) was established in 1993, and provides community input on the redevelopment of the Shipyard and Candlestick Point. The CAC holds monthly public meetings on topics related to environment and re-use, contracts, and development. The Environment and Re-use Subcommittee meets the fourth Monday of the month. To receive the most up to date meeting information or get more involved visit www.hpscac.net or call (415) 822-4622; or, visit the Site Office located at 451 Galvez Avenue. HPS CAC meeting agendas can be found at: <https://hpscac.net/agendas-minutes/>.

Additionally, the Navy has upcoming events including a Shipyard Bus Tour on September 8, 2018 and an Open House on October 3, 2018. The Navy will provide updates and answer questions from the public at these events. For more information about the Navy visit:

I think she needs to stay for the whole meeting or at least get the first round of updates. She needs to have the opportunity to ask pointed questions of each department.

This should take no more than 45 minutes, one hour at the longest. Selina can you find us an ASAP time in the next week?

The Navy has joined by phone in the past which is not, preferable but will work.

This is not a public meeting, only City representatives and regulators responsible for the cleanup are attending to provide Mayor with an briefing and update since she has not had one since taking office.

This is the team assigned to the Shipyard Clean-up. It is so technical each has a different role. It takes a village.

What is different is that we are not inviting the developer. Similar to the Pelosi meeting.

Also, we typically have representatives from Leader Pelosi's office.

We can have 2 each from OCII & SFDPH.

As Mayor, the health and safety of all San Franciscans, including the residents of the Bayview Hunters Point community is my highest concern.

The falsification of testing data by Navy-contracted employees at the Hunters Point Shipyard is serious and unacceptable, and I was relieved that justice was served earlier this year when two individuals who engaged in these fraudulent activities were convicted. I want to assure all residents that no construction is currently taking place on any of the parcels. Further, as a result of the hearing co-sponsored by Supervisor Cohen testing on parcel A has on begun and will continue through the fall of 2018.

The development of the Hunters Point Shipyard and the community benefits associated with the project, including new affordable housing, jobs, parks, and community facilities, are important to the City and the Bayview Hunters Point community. But nothing is more important than our residents' safety. I want to be clear, San Francisco is committed to a comprehensive and transparent re-testing process of the Hunters Point Shipyard and to working closely with local, state, and federal regulators including the Navy, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Toxic Substances Control, California Department of Public Health, San Francisco Department of Public Health, and community stakeholders to ensure that any property transferred to the City for development is absolutely safe.

How to Comment on a Navy Document

The Navy encourages members of the public to review and comment on documents related to the cleanup at HPNS. Federal law requires an official Public Comment Period for specific documents. In addition, the Navy may release additional documents for public comment to encourage public participation in the cleanup process and to gain feedback on the work planned.

Listed below are a few suggestions about how you can get involved with the Navy's cleanup at HPNS. In advance, thank you for your input!

1. Access and read the document(s) available for public comment

Go the Navy's website or visit one of the local Information Repositories (see Document Review Locations, above) to review the documents included in a current official Public Comment Period.

2. Clarify your concerns

Work plans and findings reports are technical in nature. If you have questions or need clarification, contact Navy team members and other experts to help you understand whether your concerns are addressed in the document.

3. Document your comments

Write down your comments. Be as specific as possible, noting the section and page number your comment applies to.

4. Be constructive

When possible, offer feedback that may be used to improve the program. Comments that are specific, measurable, attainable, and relevant are best.

5. Be timely

To be sure that your comments are included in the official record, make sure you submit your comments before the official Public Comment Period for the document you are interested in closes.

Approved statement w/ CDPH.

I think we should also share with Supervisor Cohen.

As Mayor, the health and safety of all San Franciscans, including the residents of the Bayview Hunters Point community is my highest concern.

The falsification of testing data by Navy-contracted employees at the Hunters Point Shipyard is serious and unacceptable, and I was relieved that justice was served earlier this year when two individuals who engaged in these fraudulent activities were convicted. I want to assure all residents that no construction is currently taking place on any of the parcels.

The development of the Hunters Point Shipyard and the community benefits associated with the project, including new affordable housing, jobs, parks, and community facilities, are important to the City and the Bayview Hunters Point community. But nothing is more important than our residents' safety. I want to be clear, San Francisco is committed to a comprehensive and transparent re-testing process of the Hunters Point Shipyard and to working closely with local, state, and federal regulators including the Navy, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Toxic Substances Control, California Department of Public Health, San Francisco Department of Public Health, and community stakeholders to ensure that any property transferred to the City for development is absolutely safe.

Approved statement:

As Mayor, the health and safety of all San Franciscans, including the residents of the Bayview Hunters Point community is my highest concern.

The falsification of testing data by Navy-contracted employees at the Hunters Point Shipyard is serious and unacceptable, and I was relieved that justice was served earlier this year when two individuals who engaged in these fraudulent activities were convicted. I want to assure all residents that no construction is currently taking place on any of the parcels.

The development of the Hunters Point Shipyard and the community benefits associated with the project, including new affordable housing, jobs, parks, and community facilities, are important to the City and the Bayview Hunters Point community. But nothing is more important than our residents' safety. I want to be clear, San Francisco is committed to a comprehensive and transparent re-testing process of the Hunters Point Shipyard and to working closely with local, state, and federal regulators including the Navy, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Toxic Substances Control, San Francisco Department of Public Health, and community stakeholders to ensure that any property transferred to the City for development is absolutely safe.

Subject: Hunters Point Event

Just got a call from Dan Bernal – they're thinking of doing an event at the shipyard on Tuesday 7/31 in the morning (9am-11am appx). Pelosi, Navy, EPA, CADPH, MLB and Malia Cohen would all be invited. Briefing + tour + press. Highlight all the pressure the elected have put on the agencies to re-test.

Nothing confirmed yet, flagging for your awareness.
